NYXFilm Ltd. Releases the First, Limited Printing of Pandora: The Cinemagraphic Novel by Author and Filmmaker Pamela Theodotou

NEW ORLEANS -- NYXFilm Ltd. and author and filmmaker Pamela Theodotou will release Pandora: The Cinemagraphic Novel on October 31, 2019 for a limited first printing.

Pamela Theodotou coined the term "Cinemagraphic Novel" to describe a new art form that brings narrative to the page utilizing a cinematographer's eye, culminating in this first project published by Theodotou's film and television company, NYXFilm Ltd..

The novel mimics a tattered journal of Mary Shelley, revealing her masterpiece Frankenstein is not a work of fiction, but rather an autobiography of poets and pawns manipulated in a chess game of immortal figures and secret societies: The Masonic Brotherhood and the Illuminati.

Tirelessly researched in the National Archives, with certain plot points based on real documents and events, Pandora is a tale that flips the script, inherently and dynamically challenging readers to question what they know of history.

Pandora's first, limited printing will be available to bookstores, libraries, and comic book and graphic novel vendors on October 31, 2019 via <http://www.marywolstonecraftshelley.com>.
